

Handwritten text on graph paper, consisting of six vertical columns of characters. The characters are arranged in a regular, grid-like pattern, suggesting a structured or repetitive text, possibly a code or a specific dialect of a script. The characters are black ink on a white grid background.